

Child Health – Research based on the NLSY79 Child Surveys

July 2006

The NLSY79 Child surveys, started in 1986, collect information on the cognitive, physical, and socioemotional development of the children of the mothers in the National Longitudinal Surveys of Youth/1979 Cohort. This bibliography of published studies based on the NLSY79 Child data focuses on research related to child health. The document does not include research on prenatal or postnatal care in which the analyses draw exclusively on data from the mothers' records in the NLSY79 main Youth file. This list includes journal articles, monographs, and dissertations published through July 2006 and excludes unpublished working papers and conference presentations. A comprehensive, annotated listing of NLS research can be at: <http://www.nlsbibliography.org>.
