As you may remember, a few months ago one of our representatives interviewed someone here about your household. After that interview, (YOUTH RESPONDENT) was selected by chance to take part in a survey of young people we are doing for the Department of Labor. You may have received a letter (I have a letter here; HAND RESPONDENT LETTER AND BROCHURE) which tells you about the study. It is being done in this area and in many other areas throughout the country. The purpose of the study is to find better ways to help young people make good decisions about their future.

C. Now, I'd like to tell you a little more about the study and ask you a few questions about the members of your household. Then, with your permission, I would like to speak with (YOUTH) to ask (him/her) to participate in our study. And to express our appreciation for (his/her) participation, I would like to give (YOUTH) $5 at the end of the interview.

This survey will collect information from young people themselves about their education and any work experience they may have had. Through this survey we hope to find answers to such questions as what kind of training really helps to get a good job; how effective are job training programs, and how family life influences a person's decision about jobs.

READ TO PARENT: Your participation in this survey is completely voluntary, but we would appreciate it if you would take a few minutes to answer some questions about the members of this household. All information you give will be protected under the Privacy Act of 1974. Your answers will be kept confidential, and the results of the study will be made public only in summary forms, so that individuals who participate cannot be identified.

As I mentioned earlier, before talking with (YOUTH), I'd like to ask you a few questions about the persons who live here in this household.

INTRODUCTION: Hello, I'm _____ from the National Opinion Research Center at the University of Chicago. (SHOW ID) May I please speak with (YOUTH RESPONDENT)? (WHEN RESPONDENT IS CONTACTED, REPEAT INTRODUCTION, IF NECESSARY, THEN READ:)

As you may remember, a few months ago, one of our representatives interviewed you. After that interview, you were selected, by chance, as someone we would like to take part in a survey of young people we are doing for the Department of Labor. You may have received a letter (I have a letter here; HAND R LETTER AND BROCHURE) which tells you about the study. It is being done in this area and in many other areas throughout the country. Its purpose is to find better ways to help young people make good decisions about their futures. And, to express our appreciation for your participation, I would like to give you $5 at the end of the interview.

Before we go on, what is your complete mailing address? (PROBE ALSO FOR COUNTY AND RECORD ADDRESS IN BOX B ON FACESHEET.)

Now let me tell you a little more about the study and how I would like to proceed. The survey is collecting information from young people themselves about their education and any work experience they may have had. We hope to find answers to such questions as what kind of training really helps to get a good job; how effective are job training programs; and how family life influences a person's decision about jobs.

The main part of the interview will be about you--your background and training; your experience with different kinds of work; and related matters.

READ TO RESPONDENT: Your participation in this survey is completely voluntary. All information you give will be protected under the Privacy Act of 1974. Your answers will be kept confidential, and the results of the study will be made public only in summary forms, so that individuals who participate cannot be identified.

But to start, I'd like to ask a few questions about the persons who live here in this household.
